MEMORANDUM OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill makes provision for financial institutions to report dormant accounts to the Minister charged with responsibility for finance and the Monetary Authority and to transfer monies in dormant accounts to the general revenue of the Islands, subject to claims for repayment by the owners of the dormant accounts.

Clause 1 provides the short title.

Clause 2 contains the definitions.

Clause 3 provides for the application of the Law to a dormant account where the period of dormancy commenced prior to the commencement of the Law.

Clause 4 makes provision for monies held in financial institutions, in relation to which no activity has taken place within the past six years, to be deemed to be held in dormant accounts.

Clause 5 makes provision for the procedure for notifying a dormant account holder of his dormant account, of the transfer of the monies in the dormant account to the general revenue of the Islands and of the dormant account holder's right to make a claim for repayment.

Clause 6 makes provision for the publication of a notice in circumstances where the financial institution has been instructed not to communicate with or contact the dormant account holder, or where the financial institution has been unsuccessful in trying to notify the dormant account holder.

Clause 7 introduces the procedure for the transfer of monies in dormant accounts by financial institutions to the general revenue of the Islands and provides for the monies transferred to be vested in the Government. The clause also provides for the submission of a report by the financial institution to the Minister and the Monetary Authority regarding the total amounts of monies transferred; the total number of dormant accounts concerned; the amount of each dormant account; the name, date of birth and last known address of the dormant account holder and any other details that would enable the dormant account holder to be identified. Where the financial institution does not hold any dormant accounts, a report to that effect must be made to the Minister and the Monetary Authority. Clause 7 also makes it mandatory for a financial institution to furnish a certificate of compliance to the Minister and the Monetary Authority and to appoint an authorized officer to sign the certificate of compliance.

Clause 8 makes provision for a financial institution to keep and maintain a register of dormant accounts containing particulars of dormant accounts and dormant account holders.

Clause 9 provides for a claim by a person claiming to be a dormant account holder and for a determination by the Minister that a person is a dormant account holder. The clause also provides for repayment of the total transferred from a dormant account together with the interest accrued to the claimant where the claim is established. A person aggrieved by the decision of the Minister has a right of appeal against that decision to the Grand Court.

Clause 10 provides for the Monetary Authority to authorize an inspector for the purposes of ensuring compliance by financial institutions, examining claims for repayment of monies transferred from dormant accounts and determining whether financial institutions have established systems, procedures and practices in relation to dormant accounts.

Clause 11 makes provision for an inspector to carry out inspections to ensure compliance by the financial institution with regard to dormant accounts and to compel the production of relevant information.

Clause 12 provides for an inspector to prepare a report where the inspector finds, after an inspection, that there is reason to believe that a financial institution is in breach or that there is material defect in the financial institution's systems, procedures or practices relating to dormant accounts.

Clause 13 removes any restriction or prohibition imposed by law on disclosure to an inspector of information required for the purposes of his functions or information that in the opinion of the inspector ought to be contained in a report of the inspector in the public interest.

Clause 14 empowers the Monetary Authority to give directions in writing to a financial institution aimed at ensuring compliance or rectifying a material defect in its systems, practices or procedures relating to dormant accounts.

Clause 15 provides for the power of the Governor in Cabinet to make regulations for disclosure of certain information relating to dormant accounts in the interest of consumer protection and the orderly regulation of financial institutions and for statistical purposes only.

Clause 16 makes provision for immunity of a director, inspector or employee of the Monetary Authority or a financial institution against liability for damages for anything done in good faith in the exercise of their respective duties.
